

Marianna Founti

Marianna Founti has studied psychology in France. She worked as psychologist for 10 years in Athens, and after started researching about alternative ways of healing. Through music, painting and other different ways, she went back to the roots, which people used to use in old times. She had different interviews with the old practical midwives and doctors on the island of Crete and also in different countries in Europe, Asia and Africa always interested about the old remedies with herbs. She started a small herb shop in the village of Maroulas 24 years ago, where she uses the local plantation to give solutions on different health problems, combining herbalism and psychology.