

PANOS CHASAPIS

Panos Chasapis lives and works in Amsterdam and Basel as a photographer and teacher. He studied theater and acting in Athens and worked in schools in Greece and Switzerland. He taught play and literature and mainly applied educational methods that place greater emphasis on activities that engage in the psychomotority of students by creating a system for children living abroad aiming at the proper learning of the Greek language through the course of poetry and poetry fairy tale. He believes that the problem of frozen education is global and that the only way to guide pupils to an ideal road to schools is compulsory psychotherapeutic programs for educators and parents.
